No. 21.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

POPULATION OF ILLINOIS BY COUNTIES AND MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, gives the aggregate population of Illinois by counties and minor civil divisions, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900.

Illinois was organized as a territory March 1, 1809, and admitted as a state December 3, 1818. Table 1 shows the population of Illinois at each census from 1810 to 1900, inclusive, together with the increase by number and per cent during each decade.

TABLE 1.—POPULATION OF ILLINOIS: 1810 TO 1900.

CENSUS YEARS.	Population.	INCREASE.
		Number.	Per cent.
1900	4,821,550	995,199	26.0
1890	3,826,351	748,480	24.3
1880	3,077,871	537,980	21.1
1870	2,539,891	827,940	48.3
1860	1,711,951	860,481	101.0
1850	851,470	375,287	78.8
1840	476,183	318,738	202.4
1830	157,445	102,288	185.4
1820	55,162	42,880	349.1
1810	12,282

The population of the state in 1900 is 4,821,550 as compared with a population in 1890 of 3,826,351, showing an increase during the last ten years of 995,199, or 26 per cent. This is a greater rate of increase than that for any decade since 1870, and a greater numerical increase than that for any decade in the history of the state. Prior to 1870 the growth of the state was very rapid, and the rate of increase was much greater than it has since been.

The present population of the state is more than 392 times as great as the population reported for 1810, the first census taken after its organization as a territory in 1809.

The total land surface of Illinois is, approximately, 56,000 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 68.3; 1900, 86.0.

(C P 15 M)

Table 2 shows the population of Illinois by counties at each census from 1810 to 1900, inclusive, while table 3, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase (or decrease) by number and per cent during the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

Of the above named 930 incorporated cities, towns, and villages, 614 have less than 1,000 inhabitants; 378 have less than 5,000; 27 have more than 5,000, but less than 10,000; 14 have more than 10,000, but less than 20,000; 4 have more than 20,000, but less than 25,000; and 7 have more than 25,000.

Table 6 gives for each of the 7 cities having upwards of 25,000 inhabitants in 1900 the population at each census from 1830 to 1900, inclusive, so far as it is separately stated in the census reports at each decennial period. Table 7, which immediately follows, shows for each city the increase in population by number and per cent during each of the ten-year periods.

All of the above named cities show an increase in population since 1890, the largest percentage of gain being 95.4 for the city of East St. Louis, and the smallest 15.1 for the city of Quincy. Chicago, with 1,698,575 inhabitants in 1900, shows a numerical increase of 598,725 since 1890, and a rate of increase of 54.4 per cent; this is about the same numerical increase, but less than half the rate of increase, shown for the ten years from 1880 to 1890, during which period the boundaries of the city were widely extended. Peoria, the second city in magnitude, has a population of 56,100 in 1900, as compared with 41,024 in 1890, the increase in ten years being 15,076, or 36.7 per cent. Springfield, the fourth city in the state, with a population of 34,159 in 1900, shows a gain of 9,196, or 36.8 per cent, during the decade, part of which is due to recent annexations of territory. The greatest growth is observed in East St. Louis, which has nearly doubled its population during the last ten years, and is now more than five times as large as when its first census was taken in 1870.
